Documents: New Poets of America 42 is a collection of essays and poems that explore the complexities of being a writer in the twenty-first century. Edited by Tracy K. Smith and Kevin Young, the anthology features work by some of the most exciting and innovative voices in contemporary American poetry.

The essays in Documents address a wide range of topics, including the role of poetry in the digital age, the importance of diversity in the literary landscape, and the challenges of writing in a time of political and social upheaval.

The poems in Documents are equally diverse, ranging from traditional sonnets to experimental free verse. They explore a variety of themes, including love, loss, race, gender, and the search for meaning in a complex and often chaotic world.

Documents is a must-read for anyone interested in contemporary American poetry. It is a timely and thought-provoking collection that offers a glimpse into the minds and hearts of some of the most talented writers of our time.
