

Todmorden, Walsden, Widdop, Hebden Bridge Let Loose Again 15: A Vibrant Celebration of Arts and Community

Nestled amidst the picturesque landscapes of the Calder Valley in West Yorkshire, England, the towns of Todmorden, Walsden, Widdop, and Hebden Bridge come alive each year with the vibrant Todmorden, Walsden, Widdop, Hebden Bridge Let Loose Again 15 festival. This highly anticipated event showcases the region's rich tapestry of arts, culture, and community spirit, attracting visitors and locals alike.

The origins of Let Loose Again can be traced back to 2007, when a group of passionate creatives in Todmorden sought to revitalize the town's cultural scene. Inspired by the success of other grassroots arts festivals in the region, they organized a one-day event featuring local artists, musicians, and performers.

Over the years, Let Loose Again has grown exponentially, expanding to encompass the neighboring towns of Walsden, Widdop, and Hebden Bridge. Today, the festival spans two weeks and boasts a diverse program that includes exhibitions, workshops, performances, and community events.
